Situation Overview

- On the evening of 14 Nov, the tropical storm 15 weakens into tropical depression and hit the south-central provinces of Viet Nam, bringing heavy rainfall and strong winds.
- After making landfall in the area from Phu Yen to Ninh Thuan provinces, the tropical depression moved westward and weakened into a low pressure area in the early morning of 15 November.
From 14 November at 7 PM to 17 November at 7 PM, the coastal areas from Quang Tri to Ninh Thuan and the Central Highlands have been affected by torrential rains, with total rainfall of 401 to 973 mm. The highest levels were recorded in Quang Ngai province, including Ba To and Minh Long district (over 970 mm).
- As a consequence of the heavy rain brought by the tropical depression, extensive flooding has hit the central provinces of Quang Nam, Quang Ngai, Da Nang, Phu Yen and Binh Dinh.

Humanitarian Response

National Response

- Since 14 November, the Steering Committee of CCFSC and the National Committee for Search and Rescue alerted the provinces likely to be affected by the Tropical Depression and subsequent flooding to put in place the relevant preparedness measures.
- CCFSC Steering Committee has been regularly in contact with the southern Central Provinces, as well as the Central Highlands, to closely monitor the evolution of the flooding situation, river levels and rainfall, as well as to direct the implementation of the relief activities.
- Provincial CFSCs have regularly reported on the preparedness and response activities implemented to deal with the tropical depression, the heavy rainfall and subsequent floods.
- As reported by CCFSC on 17 November, 78,395 people have been evacuated from low-lying areas at risk of floods and landslides in safe location in the following provinces:
 - Quang Nam: 1,313 / 4,355 people from 13 districts;
 - Quang Ngai: 16,405 households/66,961 people;
 - Phu Yen: 1,411 households/7,079 people.

In addition, Binh Dinh also evacuated households from highly flood risk areas, including 220 houses in Quy Nhon city.

- On 17 November, the Prime Minister issued an official telegram (1960/CĐ-TTg) to the Provinces from Thua Thien Hue to Phu Yen, including Kon Tum and Gia Lai to communicate about the complex development of the floods and instructed provinces to continuously carry out response and relief actions, including provision of immediate food and water items, particularly focusing on the most isolated areas.
- Central delegation, headed by Deputy Prime Minister Hoang Trung Hai, reviewing the progress for response and recovery in Binh Dinh, Quang Ngai, Quang Nam and Da Nang.
- All affected provinces are assessing the damage and need for recovery and livelihood stabilization.

International Response

- The UN Disaster Risk Management Team (UNDRMT) has been closely monitoring Tropical Storm 15 and flooding situation since 14 Nov in close coordination with other humanitarian stakeholders.
- International NGOs which are active in the affected provinces have been monitoring the situation and are currently assessing the damages, as well as the needs and response plans. If deemed necessary, INGOs emergency funds may be mobilized to support relief activities for the affected communities.
- In particular, Plan International is assessing the situation in Quang Ngai; Save the Children is assessing in Quang Ngai and Binh Dinh; World Vision is assessing in Quang Nam, Da Nang, as well as in Quang Ngai
- The inter-agency working group including UNs and INGOs will meet on Friday 22 Nov to update on the field assessment findings and coordinate response action if required.
